From Their Royal Majesties

Greetings Lovely Caid.

Red Star Rapier War was a wonderful event to be a part of. Not only was the fighting fun, the food delicious, and the tournaments entertaining, but the populace made it an event to remember. The tavern had exotic music and an enchanting bardic night where all performances were welcomed. When we talk of "The Dream" and "My SCA", events like this are what come to mind! Truly, from start to finish that war was nothing short of excellent; I think I even caught His Majesty rumble about having post-war blues. Coming from a through and through heavy about an event that had no heavy fighting, that says something. Next up is Crown tournament. Needless to say, we are beyond excited to meet our new heirs! We look forward to a wonderful event where we can once again revel in the thrill of competition with all you, our friends and chosen family!

From the Kingdom Seneschal

Greetings!

As we start the joyful month of April, a quick announcement about a change to the Kingdom Calendar. This office is excited to announce that starting this year all Baronial Anniversaries will now be held at one event – Caid’s Mega Anniversary Event! After a short six hour court full of presentations between all the territorial heads, baronial champions of all forms and skills will be determined by who has the most site tokens for each barony and/or shire. Closing court will feature an All Bardic Period Rap Battle where the gathered audience will determine the day’s winners. For more information, please send an email to seneschal@itsaprilfools.org.

Speaking of the kingdom calendar, as we head into this busier time of year, now a great opportunity to challenge yourself to help out in a new way. There are many ways you can help out – both by volunteering for positions at events to serving as a deputy for an office that you’d like to learn more about.

In Service,
Master Laertes McBride

Greetings, Caid!

Happy April! I’m not here to fool you but thank some people and to let you know about a new important document. I’d like to start by thanking Amanda of Gyldenholt for producing her first edition of The Crown Prints as our brand-new CP editor. Having someone in this role is a great weight off my shoulders and I look forward to seeing the new directions she takes our newsletter!

Secondly, I’d like to thank the vast majority of our content submitters for getting their announcements and articles in on time (or early!) so that Amanda had plenty of time to put together this edition. As a landed baroness and a former baronial seneschal, I know what a challenge it can be to gather that info so I truly appreciate the effort made to get your stuff in!

Finally, we have a new event cancellation guideline document! All officers and baronage should have access to it, and you can read it for yourself on page 12 of this newsletter. I hope this document helps event teams when they need to make the difficult decision to cancel their events. Look for more helpful documents like this from the Seneschal’s office in the next couple of months.

Yours in Service to the Dream,
Baroness Briana MacCabe

Wait, that's NOT period? April Fools'!

By Baron Beorn of the Northern Sea, OL

Well hello my fellow Caidans! I do believe I jumped the gun last month when I said we would have new Heirs and would have just attended Gulf Wars in the Kingdom of Gleann Abhann. Turns out, that actually happens right after I write THIS installment of the BCC (the acronym someone suggested for this monthly article [way better than the one I had as a working title: BLMATGSIFPTBBBCRD<sup>1</sup>]. It is my hope that Crown was crisp, clean, honorable, and also, since I entered into my first Caidan Crown since 2007 (YEAH, that is over 15 years ago; I'm old), that I did my best and made my Consort proud. And, as I am writing this in the past, but it is MY future, I won't attempt any weird Space/Time Continuum thingies. I would like to ask that, should someone looking suspiciously like me show up to an SCA event with a thick Austrian accent and skin with a charming metallic sheen, immediately contact either Sarah Connor, or Duchess Faizeh (whoever is closer).

The original point of THIS series of articles is to find period things in unusual places. However, in honor of April Fools', I thought we'd do the opposite and find something everyone thinks is period that, in fact, is not. And the idea presented itself to me months ago, quite by accident, at a Jouyssance Early Music concert<sup>2</sup>. Mistress Finella, Mistress Aliskye, and THL Avicia allowed me to tag along to a concert of "Hooked on Early Classics" for musical works that got the members of the group into period music in the first place. And wouldn't you know it, almost everyone, to a person, had performed this particular work.

The song in question is the beautiful work "Mon coeur se recommande à vous" attributed to Dutch composer and member of The Severe Forehead and Beard Club, Orlande de Lassus. He wrote in nearly every style of music in five languages, and is credited as one of the greatest composers of his generation (his prolific output is also no small part of why we study him today). Now, notice I said "attributed to" rather than "written by." A musician that had SUCH a deep bench of definitive works we know for a fact started on the tip of his quill, why would there be any doubt? And, if he didn't write it, then A) who did and/or B) why do we say he did?

In order to figure this out, I had to read. And not just wikipedia on my phone while I was in the bathr <ahem> researching other very important article topics for future issues of the Crown Prints<sup>3</sup>. I had to check back issues of Early Music (one of those academic journals some claim to read but often just look around for an article that proves what they'd been saying all along) and the Choral Public Domain Library<sup>4</sup> all the while not giving into the very real temptation of writing another article about potatoes.

First, where does Mon coeur se recommande à vous come from? The words, or lyrics (or poem really, as this is more akin to those Italian madrigals set to sonnets by Petrarch) were written by the great French poet (and notorious troublemaker who isn't François Villon<sup>5</sup>): Clément Marot. In his 1538 work Les oeuvres de Clément Marot ('The works of Clément Marot') the final chanson out of 42 is a poem entitled 'Chanson XLII'. I mean, where do these French poets get all their good ideas? It begins, 'Mon cueur se recommande à vous,' (My heart is offered still to you) and the rest is history. As in, Marot would never hear any versions of this chanson set to music during his lifetime.

Strictly speaking, de Lassus isn't exactly a contemporary. He was six years old when Marot died in 1544. But 16 years later, in 1560, de Lassus wrote a 5 voice piece with the Mon coeur chanson as the lyrics. By 1597, there were well over a half-dozen homages to the original written in France, Germany, Belgium and the Netherlands. Funny thing, not a single one sounds like the Mon coeur we know. Heck, none of them are even the right number of voices. No piece of music written with the Mon coeur chanson has four voices. Five? Sure. Two or three? Yes sirree! But four? Nothing survives in the musicological record. "Okay Beorn," I hear you say (in my mind, where most of the voices in my head reside), "then where does the song we all know and love come from?"

The following scholarship comes from the incredible Professor Daniel Melamed, Ph.D., Chair of the Musicology Department at the Indiana University Jacobs School of Music. Though he is primarily a Bach scholar, he was asked to sing Mon coeur at a friend's wedding and started wondering where the version we all knew actually came from, seeing as it sounds nothing like the original de Lassus. He did what many of us try to do; he worked backwards from a modern collection to find the origin. And, he found it in an ancient anthology of songs called "Arion: A Collection of Madrigals, Gleees, Part-Songs etc., by Ancient Composers (1899). You read that right, gentle readers, the version of Mon coeur we know and love is younger than the Zipper, Candy Corn, and the Remote Control<sup>6</sup>.

The editors at the London publishing house Laudy & Co. were normally quite good at attributing composers and authors; only the Mon coeur has no editor in the Arion collection. And where did THIS come from? Very likely the three volume French anthology of early music Échos du temps passé (1853) ["Echoes of time passed", what a French name, am I right?] edited by Jean-Baptiste Weckerlin, a noted French folk music collector and the librarian of the Paris Conservatoire (and composer, conductor, director, etc.). He often made solo voice and piano accompaniment arrangements of earlier pieces, and the solo and piano Mon coeur dates from this very collection<sup>7</sup> (page 32). And where did Weckerlin get it? Who knows? Dr. Melamed kept looking, and both those before and after seem to think that this was an instance of misattribution in French and English language vocal works. We often see phrases like "dubious scholarship" or "alleged composition" in those languages, but hardly a mention in any Dutch or German sources. In fact, Mon coeur barely registers as a blip on German scholars' writings about di Lassus at all. And that is perhaps the answer. A French collector made a solo arrangement for a group of Parisian amateurs, it went over very well, was poached for an English collection which was then picked clean in America by the Schirmer the a cappella singer (1935). And every single voice teacher in the post-WW II period had access to that edition. Hence why those of us who sang this from the 1960s onwards have got this "di Lasso" 4-voice choral work in our collective speed-dial.

When I write a piece of music or a poem using period techniques, am I trying to 'pull one over' on my listeners? I certainly don't think so. No one is saying that famed 14th century Shetlander Beorn of the Northern Sea wrote this, rather modern author Marc Barber, portraying the fictional Beorn in the SCA, did. And here is where I think we can stop looking at Mon coeur. Is it period? Well the words mostly are. The musical style isn't exactly modern; so, it is a decent enough anachronism. And, if I am being honest, a decent enough anachronism is about as good as it gets for most of these Modern Middle Ages. Thanks everyone! See you next month!

1 - That stood for "Beorn's Last Minute Attempt To Get Some Interesting Facts Put Together Before Briana's Completely Reasonable Deadline." Like I said, the other one is WAY better.

2 - Jouissance Early Music Ensemble is a mostly-vocal ensemble based in Los Angeles dedicated to music before 1650CE (so, mostly in the SCA's wheelhouse). They have been around for over 60 years; yep, they are around five years older than the SCA itself. Look them up and see if their new season is performing anywhere near you at <http://jouissance.org>

3 - I read out my articles as I go, and immediately after this passage, Avicia remarked, "way to give horrifying glimpses into our home life Beorn..." She gets me.

4 - The CPDL, or ChoralWiki since 2005, is THE online place to find free copies of choral music online. If you've ever sung in a choir in the

SCA, there is the very real chance that the .pdf you downloaded was ported over from there. And speaking of the actual de Lassus (or di Lasso; the dude spelled his name in almost as many ways as Shakespeare!), here is the link: https://www.cpd.org/wiki/index.php/Mon\_c%C5%93ur\_se\_recommande\_%C3%A0\_vous\_\(Orlando\_di\_Lasso\))

5 - Anybody who is known as "poet and thief" is someone you don't want to bring home to Momma.

6 - When looking at inventions in the U.S. Patent Office, I looked for things we can make a joke about. By the way, something else patented the same year as the zipper (1893): pinking shears! And while the former may be persona non grata in the SCA, who doesn't love cutting their linen fabric with the little zig-zags, huh?

Starkhafn Anniversary

WHEN: 12pm Fri, April 14, 2023 – 12pm Sun, April 16, 2023

WHERE: Simkins Park, 1350 E. Simkins Rd. Pahrump, NV 89060

Their Excellencies, Thomas and Catylyn, invite you to join Starkhafn as we celebrate our 41st (Topaz) Anniversary, cheer on the entrants of the Baronial Championship contests, and learn how to train our dragons. The previous year's champions were tasked with protecting the gifted dragon eggs and nurturing the creature's growth. Now the little hatchlings are ready to begin their training!

Artisans, come display your works! There will be different artistic opportunities to share your talents. A display, a Peoples' Choice, and the Flame Artisan competition. The Flame Artisan is chosen by the previous Flame Artisans, the Baron and Baroness, and visiting Royals from a showcase of the Artisans' body of work across a variety of Arts and Sciences categories. Brewers, bring your tastiest creations and share in our Brewers' competition.

Warriors of sword and blade will challenge the other combatants to vie for the Baronial Championships in Armored, Rapier, and Youth Combat. Friends of Ullr, send your arrows and axes to their mark for Champions of Archery and Thrown Weapons.

The Starkhafn Quintivium will be held again this year. To become the Quintivium Champion, one must participate in 5 of the champion events, one from each of the following categories throughout the day. They are Armored, Rapier, Archery, Thrown Weapons and Arts & Sciences. The participant that scores highest overall will be the new Quintivium Champion.

Lastly, as the light of the day fades, the fires will be lit to illuminate the evening's competitors where a new Bard of Starkhafn will be chosen from amongst those who share their talents to delight the muses and the gathered celebrants.

Site is wet: Meads, Ales and other libations will be allowed at this event.

Please see the Anniversary Facebook event page or the Barony Facebook for up-to-date information.

Event Cancellation Process

For the Kingdom of Caid

In consultation with the Caid Kingdom Officers:

Background

Per the SCA.org website, this is the official guidance from the Board of Directors on event cancellation:

“The authority within the SCA to cancel, reschedule, or postpone events lies with the group hosting the event (Kingdom(s), Barony, Shire, etc.) Event planners should take into account directives from legal authorities (municipal, county, state, federal) and current guidelines from the Center for Disease Control (CDC) when making such a decision.

If the event in question is required by SCA Corpora, please follow the guidelines therein for requesting a variance to postpone the event through your Kingdom Seneschal. Any such requests will be reviewed in an expeditious manner at the corporate level.

The SCA remains supportive of kingdoms and groups who continue to hold events as well as those that must cancel, reschedule, or postpone events for safety reasons or who have been directed to cancel events by modern civil authorities. Our primary concern must always be the health and safety of our members and participants. The Board will continue to monitor the situation and will communicate further when needed.”

(From <https://www.sca.org/news/corporate-guidance-on-event-cancellation/>)

Purpose

Given the guidance above, Caid will follow the process detailed below to ensure we are following all modern and Society directives when it comes to canceling events.

This document provides guidance to event stewards and territorial seneschals on the steps to cancel and reschedule official kingdom- and local-level events for the Kingdom of Caid. The goal of this process is to inform the populace of the cancellation in as timely and straight-forward a manner as possible and to quickly begin the rescheduling process (if necessary).

Process

Step 1: Inform Kingdom Officers

As soon as an event steward becomes aware of the need to cancel an official kingdom or local event, they should contact their baronial/shire seneschal, detailing the reasons for the cancellation. The seneschal should then email the Kingdom Seneschal at seneschal.officer@sca-caid.org. The Kingdom Seneschal will verify the cancellation and inform the Kingdom Chronicler.

Step 2: Update the online Kingdom Calendar and official Facebook event.

Once the Kingdom Chronicler has been informed, they will contact the Online Calendar deputy and Facebook (FB) events deputy to have the Kingdom Online Calendar and any FB events updated with the cancellation information and any available details regarding the rescheduling of the event.

Step 3: Publicize the cancellation to the populace

After the online calendar and official FB announcements have been updated, event stewards will be notified. At that time, stewards are free to post links to the official cancellation notices on the Kingdom Calendar and the official FB event in any online places necessary to inform the populace.

If the event is to be rescheduled, event stewards are highly encouraged to keep the Kingdom Chronicler and Kingdom Seneschal in the loop with any updates and assistance needs.

Additional Support

For any other questions or comments on events in the Kingdom of Caid, please contact the Event Submission Team - [events submissions@sca-caid.org](mailto:events submissions@sca-caid.org)

Baron's Feast (Gyldenholt)

WHEN: Sunday, April 30, 10am-4pm

WHERE: Westgrove Park, 5372 Cerulean Ave, Garden Grove, CA 92845

Greetings unto the populace! Baron Jens invites all to join in for this year's Gyldenholt Baron's Feast on Sunday April 30.

Once again, I will not be cooking the food, as I am not a chef, and instead heartily encourage one and all to bring their own favorite for a potluck-style luncheon to share with others as we feast. Don't forget to bring along the ingredient card!

It will be a mellow day filled with mirth and merriment, mostly because you showed up! Enjoy a day filled with socializing! Games too!

SCHEDULE:

10:00 am: Site opens

4:00 pm: Site closes

EVENTS OF THE DAY: There are Feast Champions out there; it is time to defend your title! For a number of years there have been competitions held to find the Baron's Feast Champions (not to be confused with the Baronial Anniversary Champions). The competitions this year include:

- Corn Hole
- Bocce Ball
- Kuub

Bring forth the fun! Bring forth the defenders and challengers alike! Bring along the games you would like to play. Bring forth the frivolity! I am looking forward to enjoying the day with friends and family alike!

EVENT REGISTRATION FEE: There is no site fee, though a donation jar will be present to help the barony cover costs.

EVENT STEWARD: Jens inn draumspaki, godi, OP

EVENT EMAIL: Baron@gyldenholt.sca-caid.org

SITE INFORMATION: There will be no pavilions allowed, per the Park. Pop-ups are okay.
