A Missive from Their Royal Majesties

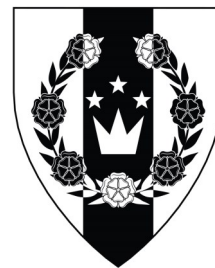

It is time for brave deeds, bold forays, beautiful arts, creative performances, finesse and accuracy with weapons and tools. It is a time when we gather by the field, the hall, and the fire. There is laughter, song, and skalds. It is Gulf Wars and we shall meet in Gleann Abhann celebrating with kingdoms across the Knowne Worlde.

Please demonstrate the courteousness, honor, and joy of our kingdom. You are each an ambassador of Meridies.

We are nearing the end of our reign and wish to thank all the stewards, officers, branches, baronage, and entourage for their help and support. The role of Crown functions best with many supporters. Know that we are ever grateful for this time we've had serving the Kingdom.

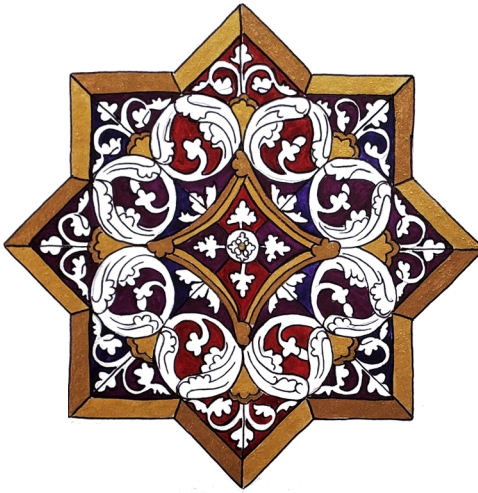

RANDVER, ARIANNE,
 REX REGINA

A Missive from Their Royal Highnesses

Unto the Noble and Gracious Populace of Meridies do Garick and Yasamin send warmest Greetings.

While we hope that no ill should befall Our Royal Parents, we do note that the first event of the month is entitled "Coronation," so we had best be ready. Our great thanks to Randver and Arianne for Their care of the kingdom and to all those who have assisted us in preparing for that auspiciously named event.

As we write this, we are in the throws of preparations for Gulf Wars. It is odd to think that by the time of this issue, Coronation will be nigh, and the fellowship and striving of Gulf Wars a pleasant memory. Should you see this missive before you leave for Coronation, do not forget to bring your gear for armored, rapier, and or ranged weapon Champions Tournaments. Additionally, we are happy to announce great equestrian endeavors. Our Lancers will be selected the following week at Fool's War. We are most pleased and cannot wait to see the brave deeds.

PENNSIC! While We have your attention, We would like to remind you of Our note last month that We hope you join Us for Pennsic 50. Please register early and if camping in Meridian lands, rather than those of friends and households, please contact Our campmaster, Master Thomas Paumer (thomaspaimer1099@gmail.com) before you register. If there is a great host, it is Our hope to create an adjacent Populace of Meridies camp, so that We can fit all Our friends together and still leave room in the Royal encampment

Greetings from the Chatelaine

If this was your first war... I hope you had a blast! A few years back Gulf Wars was my first event, and I wouldn't change it for anything. There were lots of well-meaning people that suggested it might be overwhelming and to wait a bit, I'm glad I went anyway.

That being said, it does take lots of preparation and you may need to reach out for some help. Luckily there are many resources available.

If you are contemplating your first war, this is the article for you! We will help you plan for the best experience ever!

War is something you have to throw yourself into, participate and let it happen. If at all possible, go the full time and camp on-site. While comforts of a hotel or air bnb are nice, you'll miss a lot of good stuff leaving site.

Find yourself a camp and get to know the people a little beforehand, even if it's just online. Pick your camp well, it will be your home for a week.

There are many ways to find a group to camp with at war. You can look through the different online groups to find a camp or check with your Kingdom or even local group. There are camps for people with disabilities, family friendly camps and party camps, art-oriented camps and service-oriented camps.

Find out who the Camp master is for the group you are going to camp with and contact them. That person will let you know the details of how the camp is arranged. Some may have camp fees to help with group expenses. Some will even have meal plans so you won't have to cook!

Once you know the name of the camp it'll be time to pre-register. You'll find the registration on the webpage of all wars, including Gulf. Payment can be made before the event via PayPal.

When you register, make sure you list the name of the group you are camping with. It is how the campsite makes sure there is enough space in the group for each camper.

Welcome to war preparation time! It's almost as exciting as war itself. Here is a list of items you will need first:

- ◆ A tent: Look for something sturdy, waterproof, and one you can set up yourself. If you need help, it might be best to let your camp mates know so they can be prepared to help you with it onsite.
- ◆ Bedding: I suggest a cot or simple bed frame to keep you off the ground, though air mattresses will work as well. Don't forget blankets and pillows. Sleeping bags are good but keep in mind it may be cold or hot on any given day as we camp in any weather.
- ◆ Lighting: Make sure you have light for your tent and to carry with you. Camp lights, flashlights and/or headlamps work well.
- ◆ Clothing: First, invest in some rugged totes/bins to keep your clothes in. Leave at least one set of street clothes and a garb outfit in the vehicle in case of emergency.

What to wear, what to wear? Since it may be wet, dry, hot, cold on any given day, layers are your friend.

- one long or semi-long tunic—It is great to just throw on to leave your tent for the bathroom or grab coffee in the morning.
- Two pairs of socks per day—wet feet are terrible.

- As much garb as you can gather Pack at least one garb outfit a day minimum.
- A cloak, cape, coat, or a warm wool/fleece blanket that can serve as such.
- Head coverings such as hats, hoods, veils.
- Comfortable shoes, you'll be walking a lot.

At the time I thought that was overkill and didn't quite have enough. I was, however, glad for every piece of garb I did pack; the advice was not wrong.

- ◆ Food: Though there are food vendors on site or your camp may have a meal plan, bring some easy food anyway. You'll need more protein than you think and most likely will crave surgery stuff. Being outdoors 24/7 will do that to you. Things like summer sausage, crackers, little Debbie's etc. will work great.
- ◆ Water: lots of water and/or containers to get water and keep it around.
- ◆ A mug: you can carry around to drink your water.
- ◆ Feast gear: plate, knife, fork and spoon, and an extra mug for not water.

There are hordes of packing lists floating around, check them out and get ideas. Talk to your local group about their experiences. There are even groups online with lots of advice for packing for your first SCA war experience.

In the next PC, we will discuss how to prepare for attending your first war and what to expect when you get to site.

Yours in Service,

Dis in Rauda

Chronicler's Corner

To an amazing populace,

Many of you will see this after returning from Gulf Wars. Many of us come back invigorated in the belief of our dream and inspired to actively participate within the SCA.

There are bound to be stories of many adventures which will happen over the next camping and event season. Write some of these stories and share them with your local Chronicler! We love being able to share more than event information and notices from officers.

Not comfortable with writing? Come talk to one of us. Tell us your story! We would be honored to write it for you. Many of us love writing and the opportunity to share your enthusiasm and passion.

The kingdom creates two additional newsletters besides the Pop Chiv. Seasons, which has its Spring edition coming out this month, catches the reader up on what occurred at events in the previous season, gets us excited for the upcoming season of events as well as shares wonderful research on a variety of historical topics.

Penfeathers, which is also a quarterly magazine, focuses on the youth of our kingdom. It grabs their attention by picking a theme to explore and having youth ask questions to the interviewee of the quarter. It is extra special as it is in video form, better for younger and older viewers alike.

As I mentioned last month, the Popular Chivalry, as well as Seasons and Penfeathers are representative of you, the populace of Meridies. What else would you like to see in your magazines? Come tell us!

Coronation of Garick and Yasamin

March 31 – April 2

No fooling, it's a Coronation. How will Their Royal Majesties Randver and Arianne depart the Thrones? Will there be mayhem? Will there be blood? Will eldritch powers play a part? Come and see for yourself, one thing is foretold – the Thrones of Meridies will be vacant. But fear not, they will not sit empty for long, after all the name of this event is Spring Coronation.

The line of Meridies is secure and strong, for we have most puissant Heirs. See His Highness Garick crowned King of Meridies by right of arms, and Her Highness Yasamin crowned Queen of Meridies by right of heart and soul.

Evening activities include a most excellent feast, prepared by Mistress Genevieve Aliaz d'Avignon and Mistress Muirghein inghean Rioghain, followed by the White Rose Ball.
