Royal Message

Unto the Populace of Lochac do Ariston and Jochen send their warmest greetings and thanks,

October's warming sun saw us mount up for a final intense campaign of Royal visits before stepping back to allow Our glorious successors, Porvaldr and Amabilia, their rightful place upon the thrones.

Once again, the warm hearths and rich pastures of Mordenvale made Spring War a delight. Amidst intense and joyful fighting, and convivial and delicious feasting, We had the privilege of elevating His Excellency Mordenvale, Gavriil Slotkovich, to the Chivalry. We were also delighted to announce the establishment of the Shire of Sherwater in the Crescent Isles.

Reign of Ariston II and Jochen I

We then visited Innilgard for the Royal Retreat of Arts & Valour, where the elevation of Odette de la Rive to the Order of Defence was an occasion for joyful celebration and some truly exceptional fencing, and where feasting, fun and frivolity delighted our weary hearts. Furthermore, We took great delight in sending Master Pádraig Lowther to Vigil for the Order of the Laurel; his brews can always be trusted to raise Lochac's spirits.

Finally, We made it to Ynys Fawr for a spectacular event to which we had been looking forward for months: From Raphia to Pavia. It is a privilege to move around Lochac and see such talent, enthusiasm and capability on display, and Ynys Fawr did not disappoint, whether with their gloriously enthusiastic fighters upon both Fencing and Armoured fields, or with the beautiful and thoughtfully prepared feast tailored to Our respective Landsknecht and Hellenistic personas. Even as Their Excellencies Ynys Fawr have now announced their intention to seek successors and step aside, We remain certain that the future of this wonderful barony will be bright.

Now, weary-bodied yet glad-hearted, We make Our final journey as your Crown, to River Haven for Coronation. To be Crown of Lochac is a unique privilege, as it allows one to see a snapshot of the kindness, joy and excellence of the whole kingdom, from Aneala to Southron Gaard and from River Haven to Ynys Fawr. We have seen far more similarity than difference. Similar generosity. Similar passion. A similar sense of commonality and community in this great society which holds us and binds us together.

We would thank all those who lifted us up this reign. Our wonderful chamberlain, head of household, advisors, heralds, and attendants have been absolute delights, and without them none of Our successes would have been remotely possible. Our peerages, and especially their clerks, have helped immensely, and the Seneschallate, Exchequer and BoD have been helpful and easy to work with. Our Barons and Baronesses have been vital, and graceful, conduits to help us understand and award the populace.

From the mightiest Baronage advising on grave matters to the merest newcomer who came and shared their bright-eyed enthusiasm, it is you who make wearing these crowns a privilege.

Thank you.

In service to the Kingdom,

Ariston and Jochen,

Crown of Lochac

No returns this month so well done!!

Welcome to our new rulers, Konungr Torvaldr and Dotting Amabilia.

As I look over my tenure for the last 2 years, I can reflect on many achievements by the college of Heralds: There have been new awards for the youth of the Kingdom, artisans that provide for the Royal largesse (Order of the Hand and Needle) as well as recognition of the Order of the Mark recipients. The CHAF (Court Herald Award Form) has been updated and modernised. The Book of Ceremonies is updated and will soon be published on the website for all (if not already by this submission) to download. Many thanks to Mistress Gwen verch David and Lady Amanda Martel for their hours of work. I have had the pleasure of promoting several Pursuivants to Herald and to promote Ollivier le Floch to Herald Extraordinaire. The Heralds website is continuing to be updated and has improved greatly.

I must also thank my hard-working deputies: Gwyn Cantor my deputy and now Crux! Glynhyvar of River Haven for the upkeep of the Roll of Arms after taking over from Gwyn. Cristoval Gitano taking over from Uberto as Powderhorn. Leonie de Grey who took over from the amazing and long serving Arabella d'Aubigny as Canon Herald (order of precedence). Amanda Martel taking on Bombarde from Eliana (Ceremonies). Pádraig Lowther as the effervescent chainshot (Education). Rúnfríðr Keiliselgr taking over from Sigrith parði as Rocket (submissions). Ollivier le Floch as Mortar (IT support), who now has a successor in Morris Morse Morley Morecocke.

Without these gentles and the rest of the team of heralds within the Kingdom, my job would have been much harder. Thank you to all whose path I have crossed and who have regaled me with stories and given me ideas regarding pagentry (my passion)!

I wish Gwyn all the best for their tenure and I will continue to support all who request my assistance.

From Kingdom A&S

Greetings, Lochac!

Competitions - five minutes or five pages

It's great to see so many people participating in the Lochac Kingdom A&S competitions, learning new skills, perfecting old ones, exploring themes and expanding their interests. So much enthusiasm! It can be difficult to filter that down to a manageable size for entering, while still showing off all those fascinating points. Equally, competitions require a concentrated input of time and focus from all the judges.

Volunteer judges give up their day, at an important Crown event, to deal as thoroughly and thoughtfully as they can with a wide range of entries. They need to wrangle a disparate selection into order, assign meaningful scores and offer useful feedback for each item. There might be ten items to judge, or twenty, and each one needs a fair assessment. Some people have been judges many times over the years; others may be frantically reading the guidelines to find out what they need to do.

Until the job is done, judges are not able to move around the event. They are missing out on courts, the tournament finals, the chance to socialise with their friends, and maybe even lunch! Judging is a big job, and we can't have a Championship without people willing to offer this service.

Obviously, making their task easier and more pleasant is a high priority. Some of this is achieved by the event organisers, who provide tables, chairs, writing equipment, and sometimes even drinks and snacks (much appreciated). Some of it can be achieved by competition entrants - you!

The easiest way you can help is to be prepared. Have your entry and paperwork on the table early, ready to be assessed whenever the judges are able. If you want to know more about how to document your work, start here;

<https://artsandsciences.lochac.sca.org/documentation>

Keep your text down to five pages - the judges won't have leisure to read more than that.

Of course, some entries don't fit this ideal! If you have written a book, or absolutely can't do without fifty pages of documentation, consider making use of the online or early entry options, so that your item can be examined more slowly. Of course, this means having your entry ready well before the actual event.

If you wish to present verbal docco on the day, or if your entry is a performance, or clothing being worn, you need to remain at the judges' disposal until they are able to give you their attention. This means letting them know you have a presentation, and then waiting within sight of the judges so they can get hold of you fast when the moment comes. Keep an eye out for their signal.

Judges can't chase around the crowd looking for you - they probably have seven other items waiting to be assessed. Be easy to locate and ready to do your thing.

Aim for five minutes of presentation. Less is fine.

Judges are fabulous people, doing a tricky task on a day with many other amazing things to do...

Do the Five and keep our judges happy!

In Service,

Dame Joan Sutton,
Lochac Kingdom
Arts and Sciences Minister
