From Their Majesties

Greetings to the chilly populace of Ealdormere from Your Lupine Majesties, Baldric and Breyla.

Congratulations go out to Their Royal Highnesses Evander and Marioun on a very well fought and honourable victory. All the Combatants were well inspired to heroic combat and the Honourable Opposition made us very proud. Crown involved 14 combatants and 13 Honourable Opposition; the largest Crown Ealdormere has seen in some time. We are proud of all of you. We would also like to thank the staff of Crown Tournament for a fantastic event and the birthday surprise.

We took immense pleasure in providing a writ to THLord Laurenz to join the Order of Chivalry.

We are also excited to attend Feast of the Hare this weekend and enjoy the hospitality of Their Excellencies Skraeling Althing.

Again, we'd like to remind folks that it is our intent to travel to the south lands, as we've heard rumours of war in the Gulf. As Ealdormere loves glory in battle, we would seek those who would wish to travel down to join us on the battlefields of Gulf Wars. Please reach out if you intend to travel down so that we can properly coordinate space/cabins for us.

Unto their Esteemed Majesties, to Our fellow Crown Combatants and gracious consorts, and to the great number of those who worked to make Crown Tournament a magnificent day, do Prince Evander and Princess Marioun extend Our utmost appreciation. And to all the good people of Ealdormere we send Our greetings and wishes for safe travels in the coming winter months in these lands of the North.

We look forward to the future and to spending time with all as Wassail approaches. Until then, We would encourage any who want to correspond with us to feel free to approach Our persons, by e-missive, or conveyed by messenger.

In service,

From the Kingdom Seneschal

Hello Sunshines!

I'm delighted by the buzz and interest and conversation around DEIB (Diversity, Equity, Inclusion & Belonging) that has been going on. In the interest of transparency, I just wanted to give some updates from the behind-the-scenes side of things so you know your concerns are not just disappearing into the Void.

The big thing is that the structure of the Society-level DEIB Office is changing; not the people, but the structure of it. SCA Corporate is currently in the process of moving it out from under the Seneschal's office and into being a full Greater Office of its own right. As part of that transition, they are creating training and a handbook and all sorts of other promised goodies. (They are also hoping to do that with the Chatelaines' office, to better support newcomers.)

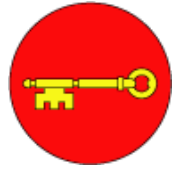

Because of that, Ealdormere's Crown and Council are holding off on creating official job descriptions and actively looking for a Kingdom DEIB officer until that structure and those supports are fully in place, as was suggested by the current Society DEIB officer. The hope is that things will be settled into place late this year, or early next year. (Everyone cross fingers for things moving quickly at the Board level).

How does that affect Ealdormere? We already have a unique-to-us position in the Lawspeaker, historically an ombudsman responsible for both interpreting the Kingdom and Society laws to the populace, and also providing an avenue for the populace to bring concerns to, and help with communication between the populace, the Crown and Council. The DEIB Officer will likely need to work closely with the Lawspeaker to determine how best to implement these new structures and policies in a manner that also retains and reflects both Ealdormere's values as a kingdom, and Ontario's own mundane laws (as may be different from the American influences on many other kingdoms).

So, keep talking, keep planning, keep thinking about how to improve our kingdom for everyone as we work our way through the waiting and planning phases of getting the DEIB office off the ground. But mostly, be patient with us! We expect this to be a trial and error process to some extent; we'd like to NOT make it be a trial by fire one!

From the Trillium Principal Herald

Greetings, Ealdormere!

This was originally intended to be my final letter as Trillium, but there are a few loose ends to tie up before you're completely rid of me, so I will save the various thank-yous until next month.

This month's topic: Use of registered Ealdormere heraldry and publicly-available graphics.

There are two issues here. One involves permissions from artists/creators of heraldic graphics (or "emblazons", as we herald-nerds call them), and the other involves use of the heraldry itself.

So: First issue: We have posted on the Kingdom website a number of graphics -- award badges, populace badges, group arms, the wolf template for helm stickers, etc. These graphics have generally been made available by their creators to be used freely by all Ealdormerians. However, there was never an understanding that these graphics (in their unaltered form) could also be used without permission for for-profit or commercial uses (or even for things such as t-shirts) by individuals or groups. Going forward, we will be updating the graphics page to credit each artist, and will be confirming with the artists what types of permissions they grant for usage. Those who wish to use heraldic art for any other purposes will be directed to contact the artist.

This leads to another, related issue. Corpora contains the following policy:

XII. POLICY ON TRADEMARKS The names and armory (devices and badges) of all groups and awards/orders which are registered on the registry of the Society Herald to any SCA Kingdom, Principality or any branch or subgroup thereof, are owned by the SCA. This includes names and armory of guilds and other artisan groups registered with the Society Herald by the SCA or branches thereof, including any other such marks as would be considered "collective marks" designating quality, origin or distinguishing features or goods or services. They may be used or reproduced only upon permission of the Society President or authorized delegate.

For you non policy wonks, what this means is the SCA owns all names and heraldry associated with territorial groups, including badges, and permission must be obtained to use them. Note that in Ealdormere, the "authorized delegate" of the Society President would be the Kingdom Seneschal. This should not impact use by official SCA groups for official SCA websites or by the Crown to give out to members of the populace, for instance. It would not impact display of award badges by those who have received those awards. It would impact, however, individuals who wish to use registered heraldry for commercial/for profit purposes.

Note that this is NOT a ban. It is a requirement to receive permission for use. In some cases this permission should be very straightforward--for instance, merchants who create award medallions provide a valuable service to the SCA, and permission would likely be a rubber stamp.

Why do we have this policy? It helps protect SCA heraldry from use by third party sites, for example, who may not have the organization's best interest at heart, or who might produce inappropriate items that could lead to reputational damage. It gives the legal representative of the kingdom a chance to confirm that the proposed use is in keeping with the SCA's mandate.

So, summary: Want to use heraldic artwork that you did not create? Get permission from the artist. Want to use registered armory for an SCA group (including badges) for other than officially-recognized purposes? Get permission from the Kingdom Seneschal.

I will add one final caveat: Within the SCA (and here, we are talking at events) wearing any territorial group device (the ones with the Laurel wreath) is quite restricted - only the Crown (or Baronage, for a Barony) or a herald acting on their behalf may wear those arms. This is why we have populace badges, which are for use by all.

Nika Trilium

From the Inland Seas Herald

Greetings Ealdormere,

I am Herr Matthäus Lindenhayn von Schaffhausen and I have the great honour of stepping up as Trillium Herald at Wassail on the 2nd of December. I would like to start off by thanking Masteritsa Nika for serving as Trillium Herald as well as the rest of the staff heralds. In a society that relies on members volunteering their free time it is always heartening to see folks contributing to make it all work.

With the shifting of positions and other changes there are a couple of openings within the College that I seek candidates for:

- Pentland Herald - The Pentland Herald is responsible for field heraldry within the Kingdom of Ealdormere with the primary responsibility of organizing the field heralds for Crown Tournament but also may be called upon to assist in the organization of field heralds for particular events
- Roaring Pursuivant - The Pursuivant in charge of assisting with and fostering education in Court and protocol.

Anyone seeking more information on these positions is welcome to get in touch and if you are interested in applying please send a statement of interest and an SCA resume to trilliumherald@gmail.com.

Finally, I am seeking input on potentially expanding the positions of Plein Chemin and Bonne Signe. For Plein Chemin the idea is expanding its scope to supporting and encouraging Diversity, Equity, Inclusion, and Belonging within the heraldic practice in Ealdormere. For Bonne Signe it is to slightly expand its scope, keeping the focus on developing silent heraldry, but adding the possibility of other means of making Court more accessible. If you have any thoughts on either idea, please send them my way.

In service,
Herr Matthäus Lindenhayn von Schaffhausen

- Quarterly review of all Kingdom Seneschal reports, respond to reports, and refer Kingdom Seneschal requests or questions to the appropriate Society or Corporate officer for assistance as needed.
- Submit detailed quarterly reports to the President and Board, and supplemental reports as needed.
- Attend all quarterly meetings of the Board of Directors, mid-quarter conference call meetings, and other meetings as required.
- Other duties and projects may be assigned by the Board or President.

The Society Seneschal must be available for the four quarterly Board meetings, typically held over a Friday and Saturday or a Saturday and Sunday. These meetings may be held via videoconference or in person. In-person meetings require travel, typically on a Thursday and Sunday.
