Random Carp that I have Learned...

A look at modern practices and their medieval sources

by K. Braden von Sobernheim

William Blackfox Award Winner A.S. 54, William Blackfox Award Commendation A.S. 49, William Blackfox Award Honorable Mention A.S. 50, 51, William Blackfox Award Nominee A.S. 45, 52, 53

Called a “Roman Dodecahedron,” there is a collection of artifacts that are small hollow objects, usually made of copper or bronze with twelve flat pentagonal faces, each having a circular hole of varying diameter in the center, with void open space on the inside. The corners have small knobs sticking out with a rounded end.

What are they for? No one knew until very recently.. Hundreds have been found from Wales to Germany, from Spain across Europe to Hungary. They all range from about 1.5 to 4 inches in size. Smaller versions made of precious metals have been found along the Maritime Silk Road (along the Arabian Sea, Indian Ocean, and to the Far East) as far as Vietnam, also inspired by the Roman Era.

There is no mention of them in Roman texts, and theories on use ranged from a kind of timepiece or calendar, astronomical tool, religious artifact, even a rangefinder, until someone in the arts and crafts world noted they look exactly like a glove form. Interestingly, they have not been discovered on the Italian peninsula, which is odd considering it a Roman Era item. And now you know more random carp.

Upcoming Baronial Pollings

A polling on the question of a new baronage for the Barony of Loch Salaan. This polling will be conducted at Melee Madness on August 10, 2024. Letters of intent are due to Their Majesties, Heirs and Kingdom Seneschal by email no later than June 1, 2024.

Participants in each polling must reside in the barony they poll in. Eligibility for participating in each polling will be determined by membership status and the zip code associated with your membership on the day of the polling (or the last day of the polling in the case of mail-in ballots). Those participating are reminded to ensure their membership address is up to date before they poll.
