Royal Missive

UNTO ALL GOOD GENTLES OF THE KINGDOM, DO AONGHUS AND GINEVRA, KING AND QUEEN OF LOCHAC, SEND GREETINGS.

Since Our last missive We enjoyed attending Border War and St Valentines in Torlyon. St Valentines was a charming event with delicious venison pies and several interesting tourneys, with beautiful paper roses handed out amongst the populace.

Our strand of beads went to Thegn Jon Huslangr, a thank you for the intense effort he puts into everything he does.

We also gave our first Royal Cypher, which was exciting, to Master Alex the Potter. Master Alex is incredibly generous with his beautiful work, and we thank him for this.

Border War in the shire of Bordescros was relatively warm as expected, but a great deal of fun, with many activities ranging from the archery, tourneys, arts and science competitions, boffer tourney and the Saturday war, a highlight being the delightfully refreshing treats to keep everyone hydrated.

The feast was delicious, and the team effort in the kitchen and packing up was a fantastic thing to witness.

We could not distinguish a single individual for our strand of beads, so they were divided among the populace.

Later this week, we will be travelling to Mordenvale for their Rhythm and Brews event, followed by Rowany Newcomers and then Crown Tournament to find Our heirs.

We look forward to sharing this list of outstanding entrants with you all shortly.

Again, We thank you all for the recommendations being sent in; together, we can recognise well-deserving individuals.

In Service to Lochac,
King Aonghus and Queen Ginevra
Crown of Lochac.

From the Kingdom Seneschal

Greetings Lochac,

March is a very busy time in Lochac. Among the events we have a Crown Tourney in a fortnight in Ildhafn. Mordenvale will be holding Rhythm and Brews, a great chance to taste the latest from Mordenvale's brewers. Southron Gaard have their Baronial Anniversary, and Stormhold are running their Chess Challenge. Of course it's also two weeks to Festival.

Another item that has been happening is the initial Alternate Crown Poll. This poll has now closed, please look in this newsletter for a statement from the Alternate Crown Working Group. I am quite surprised and pleased with the strength of the response, over 62% of both countries replied. It was interesting to see that the response rate was almost identical across both countries. Regardless of your choice I am happy with the support the poll has received and I would like to thank you all for participating. The final result is that 84% voted in favour of further investigation. The next stage of consultation will be announced shortly.

From the Kingdom Chronicler

Greeting Lochac!

Welcome to another edition of Pegasus.

This months edition sees a great deal of work done by our wonderful Heralds & Mistress Isabella de Bordeaux (Crux). If you are passionate about heraldry please take the time to read this informative, but lengthy article.

I would just like to remind everyone of the deadline for publications to appear in next months edition. Your submissions need to reach me on or before the 25th of the month. This includes event notices, awards listing, Officer updates & articles of interest that you wish to see published in next months edition. Please think a month in advance or your notice will miss the boat!

Please send all your correspondence to pegasus@lochac.sca.org.

From Crux Australis

Greetings and welcome to the February 2024
CAMEL

Acceptances for December LoAR are:

- Addison de Parre. Name change from Jane Winter. The submitter's previous name, Jane Winter, is retained as an alternate.
- Bran spibra. Name and device. Per pale sable and gules, a scorpion counterchanged. Documentation supporting an Individually Attested Pattern of symmetrical complex charges counterchanged over sable and gules was provided by the submitter, allowing registration of this device.
- Callum Macleod. Badge. (Fieldless) An ermine statant vested of a cloak sable. This badge conflicts with the badge for Adrienne Furet, (Fieldless) A ferret passant sable, with a single DC for fieldlessness. However, Adrienne has on file a blanket permission to conflict with their badge for any submission that is not identical allowing this badge to be registered.
- Darius Freeman. Exchange of device and badge. Gules, a chevron between three sheaves of arrows Or. The submitter's prior device, Per chevron gules and sable, two eagles striking respectant and in chief three sheaves of arrows Or, is retained as a badge.
- David de Darlington and Michelle de Darlington. Joint household name House de Darlington and joint badge. Per fess purple and gules, a peacock feather fesswise and two leopard's faces Or. This household name follows the attested pattern House of/de [locative].
- Tassilon of Saint Monica. Badge. (Fieldless) A crow purple. This badge does not presume upon the badges of the Order of the Pelican, (Tinctureless) A pelican in its piety and (Tinctureless) A pelican vulning itself. See the Cover Letter for more details. This badge does not conflict with the device of Damian Papyngeye, Plumetty argent and vert, a popinjay purple. There is a DC for removing the field, and a DC for the difference between a popinjay and a crow. Nice badge!

- Porfinn Hrolfsson. Badge. (Fieldless) A tricorporate lion gules. Nice badge!
- Trinette Rodwell. Name and device. Azure, a wombat statant contourny between six nettle leaves five and one argent. Trinette is the submitter's legal given name. Though this is not the defining instance of a wombat in SCA armory, this is the first registration of one in over 35 years, so we take this opportunity to confirm that, as this animal existed in the same area and time as humans, it is registerable per the change to SENA A2B2b that appears on the Cover Letter. The submitter has permission to conflict with Courtney of the White Meadow, Azure semy of delfs, a polar bear statant contourny argent.

No returns, but 1 pending:

- Matthijs Tjepke van der Horst. Badge for Domus Stellarum. Azure, on a pale sable fimbriated a mullet of sixteen points Or and a lighthouse issuant from base argent. This badge is pended to await the outcome of the Rules Letter regarding fimbriation (see Cover Letter for details).

Under the current rules and precedent, this badge would be returned for presuming upon the arms of Barbados, Azure, on a pale Or a trident head sable.

SENA A5C1 states "Blazons that are unregistrable under our core style rules (such as blazons that would produce quaternary charges or contrast issues) or that require unlikely understandings of an armorial design do not need to be considered for conflict purposes, unless that blazon is due to the use of an Individually Attested Pattern, is due to voiding or fimbriation, or is the existing blazon of a piece of registered armory."

This would force us to consider the current submission as Azure, on a pale Or a pale sable, with quaternary charges that do not count for difference. Considered this way, this badge only has one DC from Barbados for changing the trident head to a pale. This was item 6 on the Lochac letter of September 28, 2023.

The Errata letter was:

•Isolda Deye. Device change. Per chevron ployé purpure and ermine, two squirrels respectant argent. When her device was registered, her previous device, Azure, in pale a sheaf of swords inverted and a swan naiant within an orle argent should have been retained as a badge.

The cover letter is as follows:

From Pelican: More on Japanese Naming Patterns

Since the registration of our first Japanese name, the SCA has consistently used the terms nanori and yobina to describe the two types of names that Western cultures would call a 'first' name or a 'given' name. We have used the term nanori to describe a formal name, or true name, and the term yobina to describe a casual name, use name or nickname.

In the last 30 years, the academic community has made considerable progress in Japanese onomastics, and our usages of these terms need to be updated and clarified.

The term nanori refers to a non-traditional reading of a kanji that only occurs when describing people or places (<https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/nanori>, <https://www.fluentu.com/blog/japanese/nanori/>).

These readings can only be used for what the SCA considers to be name elements, and they primarily can be found for what we would consider given names. Current scholars use the terms jitsumei and imina to describe an individual's true name instead. Going forward, we will be using the term jitsumei for a Japanese formal/true name to reflect current scholarship and we will no longer use the term nanori to refer to a given name element.

Names that we consider as yobina, or use/casual/ordinary names, are also called kemy{o-} and ts{u-}sh{o-} in some scholarly texts. For SCA purposes, all three of these terms are interchangeable.

The third type of name element that we see is called a houmyou. This is a special type of name taken by a monk, much like a name taken by a nun on joining a convent. These names are always formed from on-yomi (Sino-Japanese) readings of kanji; in NCMJ these readings are found in all uppercase letters.

Name elements that are found as kemy{o-} or ts{u-}sh{o-} may be used in the same way as yobina. Name elements that are found as imina or houmyou may be used in the same way as jitsumei. Palimpsest is directed to update SENA Appendix A to reflect the change in terminology from nanori to jitsumei and to add the types of name elements that can be used the same way as jitsumei and yobina.

We referenced "Japanese Given Names: A Window Into Contemporary Japanese Society" by Ivona Bare{sv}ová (www.researchgate.net/publication/317527958_Japanese_Given_Names_A_Window_Into_Contemporary_Japanese_Society) and "The Japanese Naming System – Morphology and Semantics of Individual Names" by Anja Maria Collazo (repository.kulib.kyoto-u.ac.jp/dspace/bitstream/2433/215635/2/dnink00780.pdf) when researching this item. We would encourage anyone else interested in Japanese naming practices to do the same.

From Pelican: The Use of Grey in Non-Personal Names

This month we registered the order name Order of the Grey Owl, which uses the word grey as a colour word. The May 2021 Cover Letter approved the use of grey as a heraldic tincture for SCA purposes based on its appearance in German armory. The examples provided in that Cover Letter are sufficient for its use in non-personal names as an acceptable colour word. Palimpsest is direct to add the following colour words to the table in SENA Appendix E5:

- Heraldic Tincture - Grey
- English - Grey [D], Gray [D]

- French - Gris [D]
- Dutch - Gris [D], Grijs [D]
- Spanish - Gris [D]
- Italian - Grigio [D]

As the table notes, these are not the only spellings possible; submitters are encouraged to seek out period spellings that suit their desired time period and/or dialect.

From Pelican: Errata to The Old Norse Name by Geirr Bassi

The Old Norse Name by Geirr Bassi has been a gold standard for understanding of Norse names for much of the Society's existence. In the past several years, we have begun to increase our understanding of Geirr Bassi's source material, and we are able to update this source with new data. We wish to thank Gunnvor Orle for her research, which has allowed us to issue this errata as follows:

- Evja, p.9: We will no longer register this feminine given name. It is a typographical error for the name Eyja.
- Spana, p.14: We will no longer register this feminine given name. It is a typographical error for the name Svava.
- festagarmr, p.21: We will no longer register this descriptive byname; it is not constructed correctly. The correct construction is festagarmr.

Palimpsest is directed to add these names to the Standard Source "Errata" article (https://heraldry.sca.org/names/source_errata.html).

From Pelican: Call For Commentary

At the end of January, Palimpsest released a Rules Letter with a proposal to relax the super-protections that we currently provide in SENA. This proposal is complementary to the proposal to protect all of the Society-wide and important non-SCA orders in all languages, being the only time that we would consider conflict by translation.

We encourage lively commentary and discussion on both of these letters, and we encourage you to solicit opinions on these proposals from those in your local area. Bring those viewpoints to commentary. It is vitally important that when we consider making major changes to the rules, we understand what the impact of those rule changes might be. Do not assume that your commentary does not matter; all commentary is read and considered before a final decision on any proposal is made.

These letters can be found at <https://oscar.sca.org/index.php?action=100&loi=8508> (proposal to protect by translation) and <https://oscar.sca.org/index.php?action=100&loi=8548> (proposal to relax super-protections). We look forward to reading your commentary on them.

From Wreath: On Pelicans

A few recent submissions have led us to consider how we treat the badges of the Order of the Pelican, (Tinctureless) A pelican in its piety and (Tinctureless) A pelican vulning itself, for the purposes of conflict.

There is no one consistent depiction of the pelican in period armory, and no one protected depiction in the SCA. Period pelicans sometimes looked like swans, sometimes like eagles, and sometimes a hybrid of the two. Their postures similarly varied: pelicans in their piety or vulning themselves are seen close, wings addorsed, wings displayed, and fully displayed. They were sometimes found on their own, sometimes with chicks, and sometimes with chicks and a nest.

Period examples show the various body shapes, postures, and the presence or absence of chicks and nest, were used interchangeably.

Given the variety of postures and body shapes of pelicans in period armory, if we were to consider those features the determining factor of what is or is not a pelican for the purposes of conflict and presumption we would effectively block from registration all regular- and swan-shaped birds in the most common period postures.

Instead, we choose to focus on the one truly important symbolic detail: the vulning. Despite vulning typically not being worth difference, in the pelican's case it is the one consistent detail across all depictions, and is what makes a pelican a pelican.

So going forward:

- Any bird, in any posture or tincture, vulned, vulning itself, or in its piety will be considered as a pelican for conflict and presumption purposes.

- A bird not vulned, vulning itself, or in its piety will, in general, be considered to have an SC for type versus a pelican vulning itself so will not presume upon the badge of the Order of the Pelican, nor be considered equivalent to the charge reserved to the Order.
- Pelicans which are emblazoned as the bird is found in nature, and which are not vulning themselves, will be blazoned as "natural pelicans", and will be considered a swan-shaped bird for the purposes of conflict. They will have a DC for type versus their heraldic counterparts and will not presume upon the badge of the Order of the Pelican, nor be considered equivalent to the charge reserved to the Order. Existing registrations of these birds are reblazoned on this letter.

We direct Palimpsest to update Appendix M of SENA and Table 2 in the Glossary of Terms with this information.

From Wreath: On Using

This month we registered a blazon containing the word using for the first time. This term is to tools as the more common playing is to musical instruments, implying a maintained or sustained charge being operated in a naturalistic way, leaving leeway for the artist to portray that in any reasonable fashion. Period armory, particularly in later period, includes multiple examples of humans and beasts working with tools in ways that are difficult to blazon with words like 'maintaining', such as the canting crest of the arms of Buttrer, which show a woman churning butter with the butter churn resting at foot level, or the arms of Oberndorffer, which show a seated woman winding yarn on a swift.

If the used charge is large enough to be considered co-primary with the one using it, this will be indicated by an arrangement term like 'in fess'. If the used charge is considered a secondary, no arrangement term will be used.

From Wreath: On Registerability of Plants and Animals

As proposed on Palimpsest's September 2nd Rules Letters, SENA A2B4a (which discussed when plants and animals were registerable with a step from core practice) is deleted and SENA A2B2b is modified to generally allow plants and animals that existed in the same time and place as period humans to be registered without a step from core practice. The wording will be available at <https://heraldry.sca.org/sena.html#A2B2> within a few days.

From Wreath: On Overall Charges

On the April Cover Letter we put out a call for research on how overall charges were used in period armory. As noted on the September Cover Letter there was an overwhelming amount of research provided by commenters, and it has finally been analyzed.

The research covered over 17,000 pieces of armory, including armorials from across Europe.

From the outset, it was clear that overall bends made up a majority of the results, comprising up to 2/3 of the examples of overall charges in some sources. It was also clear that bends were used quite differently from other overall charges, frequently being used as a cadency mark similar to the label, and following rules that were clearly distinct from other overall charges. Due to this, the data below does not include bends or labels. It also doesn't include augmenting elements like cantons and escutcheons of pretense.

Most of the data supported our general practices and restrictions on overall charges. For example:

- Of the arms with an overall charge, in 74% of the cases the overall charge had good contrast with the field.
- Only one example was found of multiple overall charge groups.
- No examples were found of voided or fimbriated overall charges.
- Only one example was found of an ordinary counterchanged over a complex charge.

The areas where SCA practice and period practice came into conflict were:

- Overall charges were incredibly rare in period armory. Only 120 (0.7%) of the over 17,000 arms analyzed included an overall charge. Even if bends had been included, this number wouldn't have been higher than 2-3% of the total.

- Of the arms with an overall charge, in 92% of the cases either the primary charge or the overall charge was either an ordinary or a long charge (such as trees, arrows, croziers, halberds, etc.). If bends had been included, this would have been even higher.

We believe this last point is one where we can better align our rules with period practice, and we will be issuing a Rules Letter shortly to discuss how it may be implemented. We wish to again express our gratitude to commenters for all the data they provided us.

From Wreath: On Fimbriation

Two submissions this month caused us to consider how we treat charged, fimbriated charges for the purposes of conflict. SENA A5C1 states "Blazons that are unregistrable under our core style rules (such as blazons that would produce quaternary charges or contrast issues) or that require unlikely understandings of an armorial design do not need to be considered for conflict purposes, unless that blazon is due to the use of an Individually Attested Pattern, is due to voiding or fimbriation, or is the existing blazon of a piece of registered armory."

Based on this rule, we must consider a charged fimbriated charge to be equivalent to a charge on an identical charge, charged with quaternary charges, despite this interpretation being both unlikely and unregistrable.

We ask Palimpsest to open a Rules Letter for discussion on potential changes to this rule.

From Wreath: Conflict Checks in Commentary

A useful thing armory conflict checkers can do is to include the type of armory (device or badge) when noting potential conflicts. As this information is part of my standard wording when noting conflicts and when explaining why something isn't a conflict, including it saves me having to look the item up.

Thank you for all your hard work!

From Wreath: A6C - Claims through Arms of Pretense and Unearned Augmentations

As noted on the September 2023 Cover Letter, when SENA A3A3c was updated based on period evidence, quartered augmentations may be in the second and third quarters as well as the first and fourth quarters. We are updating SENA A6C to reflect this. The updated text will be available at <https://heraldry.sca.org/sena.html#A6C> within a few days.

There is a lot in there to digest, so to the Heralds I wish you good reading.

Until next months; Go forth and Herald!

From the Kingdom Constable

Greetings,

Old saying "hit by a bus", well I was in August last year and it has been a very slow road to recovery.

But it has highlighted an issue in the society. We have a shortage of constables/deputies in this Kingdom.

We need people to step up and assist their groups where they can. Training will be provided and you will be supported by Kingdom and Group Officers.

So do not be shy!!

Diccon Shorthand

From the Kingdom A&S

Greetings, Lochac!

Lochac has many guilds, some busier (and bigger) than others. They offer a nuanced layer of interests and activities to the Kingdom, which should be celebrated.

I'd like to float the idea of a Combined Guilds Event, where each Guild could run some classes, hold a meeting, sign up new students, chastise recalcitrant ones, generally strut their stuff and finish off with a grand Guild Dinner, with all the Guild masters sitting at the high table.

Lochac has had such events in the past, I believe with great success! Maybe the time is ripe to do that again. We just need enthusiastic people to organise it...

As KMoAS, I will gladly offer whatever support I can. Apart from starting the conversation, I can be a central communications point, until a stewarding team builds itself.

- Want to cook the feast?
- Steward the event?
- Run a rapier tourney?
- Maybe teach brewing or calligraphy or woodworking?

If you're keen, drop me a line on Facebook or on artsandsciences@lochac.org, and tell me how you would like to contribute.

We can build it together!

In service,

Dame Joan Sutton,
Acting KMoAS.

From the Kingdom Rapier Marshal

Important updates for all Lochac Fencers and Marshals!

Thank you to everyone who has been participating in the Inter-Kingdom Reduced Armour Experiment. Your ongoing reporting has been so valuable, and due to the data collected Society fencing armour minimums have been updated.

At this stage, our current rules (and current armour standards) remain unchanged, but we are in the process of incorporating the reduced minimums into our rule set at a Kingdom level.

Please feel free to reach out to me at rapier@lochac.sc.org.

Lochac R.A.E

The Reduced Armour Experiment for standard rapier is continuing in Lochac. We have permission to continue with all three options as they currently exist. Lochac will be exploring the possibility to expand the melee size limit, but currently this is no change to our existing experiment.

Melee involving any participants wearing reduced armour in Lochac is still capped at 10 people total (5 per side max).

Please make sure to continue to report!

In Service,
Jude Aleksandr Donetsk
Lochac KRM

Notice Board

Greetings Lochac,

Firstly we would like to send our thanks to the Lochac Masonry Team for all their hard work in keeping the Kingdom servers and websites up and running. Masonry does a great job behind the scenes that many of us are unaware of.

Thank you for your Service Masonry Team, you rock.

The SCA Ltd Australian Board of Directors is looking for new members. The requirements are a current Australian SCA membership and you must be over 18 years of age. If you are interested in seeing what happens behind the scenes then this may be for you. Currently there are 5 members on the AUS Board and we come from all over Australia. We have all played different roles in the Society of Office holders. To Royalty, from Peers to member of the Populace, all are welcome to apply.

The AUS Board has a limit of 2 members from the same state/territory (we currently have 1 from NSW, 2 from the ACT, 1 from Vic and 1 from SA). The standard term on the AUS Board is 3 years, with new members generally beginning as a general member and then they may hold an Executive position in their second or third year (Chair, Deputy Chair, Treasurer, Secretary). Our AGM and Executive changeover happens in May.

If you would like more information please contact the AUS Board at: board@sca.org.au
This year the SCA Ltd AUS Board AGM will happen on 12th May 2024 at 2pm (AEST). More details will be forthcoming.

Food Safety Update

Food Safety Standard 3.2.2A came into effect in December 2023. At this stage, the Board does not believe that the SCA Ltd is captured by these new regulations, and no further action needs to be taken by groups or offices regarding these standards. Groups are actively encouraged to assist group members acquire the relevant training (such as food safety supervisor training) as this, similar to first aid training by group members, can greatly improve safety of all participants.

Additionally, no person operating under the banner of the SCA Ltd may sell food to members of the public or those who are not otherwise ticketed attendees of an SCA event. This is to prevent our accidental capture by these regulations, and covers such activities as selling of medieval food at demos and faires.

Individuals or businesses operating at SCA events but under their own banner (such as businesses selling food at Rowany Festival) are not operating as part of the SCA Ltd, and must determine for themselves how these new regulations apply to them

YIS
The SCA AUS Ltd Board

Greetings all,

With the change to when FAT/RAT take place at the event, we are keen on hearing back from people on when exactly they should take place and what should be scheduled for the last day of Festival.

If you are able, please take the time to fill out a short survey, so that we can collect everyone's views and make the timetable work the best for most people.

Rowland and Gilchrist
Festival Stewards 2024

Greetings Lochac,

As previously advised the Lochac Alternative Crown Selection Working Group has now conducted a poll of the adult members of the kingdom to determine the level of interest in discussing alternative means of selecting the Crown of Lochac. The poll was open from February 1st to February 28th. All current adult members were emailed invitations to participate, and reminders sent to those who had not submitted a response after two weeks.

A total of 931 members responded, which represents 62% of the adult membership of Lochac at the time of the poll. The response rate was almost identical in Australia and New Zealand. Because the poll was anonymous, we cannot know whether the support was the same in each country, but we have no reason to assume it was not.

A total of 777 members indicated that they were interested in discussing alternatives, representing 84% of the people who responded. This provides us with unambiguous support to continue to the next stage. The working group is now finalising preparations for a period of consultation, where we will be seeking input from all members on the broad approaches that might exist, and the advantages and disadvantages of each.

We will also be publishing a high-level roadmap to explain to people what the next steps are. We will continue to keep you informed of progress at all times, and will always welcome questions or suggestions.

The working group can be reached at acwg@lochac.sca.org.

Greetings all,

Lochac Autumn Crown tournament is officially less than one month away and bookings close in 8 days!

If you haven't already booked then please take a look at the Ildhafn Website: <https://ildhafn.lochac.sca.org/node/1884> for more information and details!

Bookings are open until 1st March or until Bunkroom bookings are full. Unfortunately tent accommodation is not available at this event. If you have already booked, then check out these other options for the event.

$10.00 UNLIMITED TURKISH COFFEE AT CROWN!!!

This year the wonderful "Bird House Coffee House" will be serving you delightful Turkish coffee at the Ildhafn Crown Tournament, but only if you have pre-paid.

If you have been at an event at the Braythwayte's in Rotorua you will know the pleasure and delight that this beverage brings to the masses.

For only $10 you can drink unlimited coffee at the Autumn Crown Tournament in March. Bring your vessels and coffee will be deposited for your enjoyment.

There will be very limited availability to buy on site (and only on sign-in at Gate), so avoid disappointment and Prepay as you may find yourself coffee-less if you don't....

In Service
The Autumn Crown Stewarding Team!

Reign of Aonghus I and Ginevra I

Greetings all,

So how go your entries for the Ouroborus Prize, the prestigious A&S competition hosted by The Alchemist's Guild of Lochac?

What was that?

You haven't started yet?

Never fear, you still have until Great Northern War (early June) to have it ready. I've already heard of some ideas from within the Guild, but I want to see some real competition against them!

You know you can beat us!

You just have to prove it!

Can't remember about the Ouroborus Prize?

Here are the details:

It is I, Wei Min Cheng, Chief Alchemist of the Alchemist's Guild, and I bring good news to those who like science and aren't afraid to show it.

With consultation with Kingdom A&S, we're proud to announce the first annual Ouroborus Prize - a competition where anyone (from Lochac or the Alchemist Guild) can submit an entry, be it a physical object, a performance, or a piece of research, just to name a few, based around one or more of the categories listed below. It doesn't even have to be finished!

The categories that an entry can be entered in are broad, but encompass the purview of the Guild.

They are: Science, Medicine, and Demonstrative.

While Science and Medicine are easy enough, the Demonstration category is unique in that it combines the Science and Medicine categories. But instead of static displays, the entrant is to demonstrate and explain their entry to an audience, as if they were teaching a small and short A&S class, as teaching and sharing of knowledge is a Guild tenet.

Each category will be judged separately and by popular vote at the Guild's first anniversary - Great Northern War 2024! So, everyone has 6 months to prepare their entries and arrange getting it there.

Can't make it to the event, but have an entry for the Demonstrative category? We have good news! You can pre-record your demonstration (in digital format) and submit it. It'll be made available to view before and during GNW.

While the Science and Medicine categories will each have a winner, it's the winner of the Demonstrative category who becomes the overall winner of the Ouroborus Prize and gifted with treasures from the Alchemist Vault and hold a special rand within the Guild until the next Ouroborus Prize.

Ynys Fawr and Stormhold have a line to draw ... in the sand. To resolve this dispute, the baronies are holding a weekend of ... measuring contests ... to determine the full extent of each baronies' territory with a weekend of beachside fun.

Delights include: Heavy and rapier Tournaments; Lots of archery including roving rounds, target and combat; A small market for the shopping inclined; A delectable feast (the stewards have 'shanghaied' the talented Tosti Vicherovich Bogolyubskiy to provide the food); Best parrot plumage competition! And lots more!!

So let the sirens lure you down to the sea as we answer the question: High ties line or low? Fabulous two-day event at gorgeous Torquay on the south coast of Victoria.

Choice of camping or comfy cabin accommodation (limited so book soon), beautiful grounds, CPAP, and mobility accessibility friendly.
